

Risk Against Violence Policy

General

The purpose of this policy is to set out our company's policy and procedures to prevent, manage and respond to work-related violence. Management supports this policy, and we will not tolerate any instances of work-related violence, including verbal abuse, to our staff. No member of staff will be blamed for an instance of work-related violence caused by a customer or member of the public. All employees have the right to be treated with consideration, dignity, and respect.

This policy applies to all staff working on our premises or our customers premise, including staff, contractors, and delivery personnel.

Definition of work-related violence

We will define work-related violence as: any incident in which an employee is abused, threatened, or assaulted by a member of the public in circumstances arising out of the course of his/her employment. This is based on the Health and Safety Executive's definition.

Responsibilities of staff and managers

These relate to all members of staff, including security personnel and other personnel who work on these premises, or have responsibilities relating to them.

Managers and Supervisors:

All managers and Supervisors have a responsibility to implement this policy and to make sure their staff are aware of it and understand it. Managers should also:

- Treat any reports of work-related violence, threats or abuse seriously and respond to them promptly.
- Record details of the incident where appropriate and give all employees involved in the incident full support during the whole process. You should also respond and consider seriously any suggestions made by staff about how to improve violence prevention and management, and give feedback to staff about their suggestions, including whether it will be taken forward and if not, why not.
- Set a positive example by reporting all incidents of violence and abuse and not tolerating abusive behaviour from customers and members of the public. Make sure you also offer good customer service and follow specific policies, e.g. on the sale of alcohol.
- Respond to and, where possible, resolve incidents, ideally before they escalate.

- Monitor incidences of violence and abuse and initiate appropriate action if more measures are needed. Review and amend this policy and the risk assessment, as necessary.
- Where possible, direct staff to appropriate support and advice after an incident has occurred. Encourage other staff members to support their colleagues, including those that might have witnessed the incident. If victims are particularly traumatised by the event, provide support where possible, such as time off work or changes to their tasks.
- If an investigation is needed, work with the police and offer any assistance needed to help in their enquiries.

Managers have a responsibility to act in a way that does not incite or increase the likelihood of violence. They also have a responsibility to respond to any reports of violence. Any manager found to be encouraging or inciting violence or not resolving potentially violent or abusive situations may be subject to disciplinary action.

Staff:

All staff have personal responsibility for their own behaviour and for ensuring that they comply with this policy.

There are a number of things that staff can do to help prevent work-related violence:

- Be aware of the company's policy and comply with it, including specific policies on aspects such as the sale of alcohol or excluding customers.
- Offer good customer service and be aware of customer needs.
- Recognise the potential for work-related violence and take action to resolve it early on. Staff should take positive action and, for example, contact a manager if they think a customer or member of the public might cause problems.
- Do not accept instances of work-related violence directed towards you or others. Staff should report any instances of violence, threats or abuse, including any details about when it happened, who was involved and any relevant circumstances that may have contributed to the incident. Serious incidents should be reported in the incident book kept in the manager's office, but minor incidents and incidents of verbal abuse should be reported to managers as they occur.
- Be supportive of colleagues who are victims or witnessed work-related violence.
- Suggest additional measures to managers which might help to prevent and manage work-related violence.

Staff have a responsibility to act in a way that does not incite or increase the likelihood of violence. Any staff member found to be encouraging or inciting violence may be subject to disciplinary action.

Staff and managers should also work with trade unions, where relevant, in preventing, addressing, reporting, and responding to incidents or work-related violence.

Risk assessments

The risk assessments for work-related violence are kept in the manager's office in the health and safety folder.

The risk assessments were conducted by the senior manager and are reviewed every year, unless an increase in the number of incidents suggests the assessment should be reviewed more frequently.

The risks were assessed by talking to staff, reviewing the incident book, and considering the work environment and job design. If staff believe a risk factor has not been covered by the assessment or have ideas on further prevention measures, they should discuss these with their manager. The contents of the risk assessment will be communicated to all staff and appropriate training will be given.

Prevention and management measures

There are several measures in place following the risk assessment that staff should be aware of. These fall under the areas of work environment, working practices and training.

Possible harm

Employees may be subject to threatened or actual violence or aggressive behaviours in the course of their work and suffer injury and or stress.

Work environment

Risk assessment for all site, CCTV to be used where applicable, lone worker Monitoring. Senior Managers will assess the work environment and ensure staff have regular break to stop fatigue and relieve stress. Control measures are also put in place.

Working practices

On sites that serve alcohol, officers will be Door Supervisor licensed to ensure they have been trained on conflict management and have had physical intervention training.

Sufficient staff should always be provided. At particularly busy times, more staff should be provided. Managers must monitor busy periods and ensure that this is followed. We will ensure that adequate numbers of staff are always available.

If applicable Body Worn Video (BWV) to be used only to use to: BS8593:2017 Code of Practice.

Existing Control Measures

We do not tolerate any instance of work-related violence, including verbal abuse, to our staff. No member of staff is blamed for an instance of work-related violence caused by a customer or member of the public. All such incidents are investigated and analysed so that lessons can be learned and shared among staff.

Managers are trained and instructed to treat reports of violence and aggression seriously, to promptly respond to them, to record details and to share lessons learned with staff and other managers.

Manager's training includes providing support to any member of staff involved in an incident and to others who may have witnessed the incident or been affected by it.

The Police are always involved where actual harm occurs and where the same person is regularly abusive or threatening to staff. HD CCTV is used to monitor and survey the premises. Its presence is advertised, and cameras are prominent. As company a rule, Cava Security do not attain door supervision Contracts on licensed premises.

Training

The following training should be provided:

- All staff, including new staff, should receive awareness training on work-related violence, our policy and procedures, how to prevent work-related violence, reporting procedures and what to do following an incident. This may be through formal training or a briefing from managers, depending on the risk potential for the staff members.
- Managers will be trained as above, as well as on how to handle complaints and trouble among customers effectively.
- Door staff have been trained by the company on how to exclude or remove individuals from the premises and will be Security Industry Authority (SIA) registered and trained. They have also been inducted in relation to our own premises.
- POLICE Exploitation and Vulnerability Training, Staff are trained how to report.

Specific and relevant procedure & policies

There are other company policies that are relevant to the prevention and management of work-related violence. These include:

- Dynamic Risk Assessment
- Health & Safety Policy
- Risk assessment for the Site
- None Harassment Policy
- Violence Policy
- Corporate & Social Responsibility Policy
- POLICE Exploitation and Vulnerability Training

Actions following an incident.

- If a staff member is being abused, threatened, or attacked, they should approach their manager or a colleague for help. Managers should respond to the situation by talking to the perpetrator, explaining that their behaviour is not acceptable. They should try to resolve the problem and, if that is not possible, call security for assistance. Security will remove the person where required.
- Medical assistance should be provided immediately where required.
- The police should be informed of a serious incident involving physical attack or serious cases of threatening or verbal abuse. Police should also be informed of persistent cases of violence, threats and abuse.

- CCTV discs of incidents should be kept in case the police need them. All incidents should be recorded in the incident book and less serious incidents reported to managers.

Staff members will be encouraged to provide support to any victims or witnesses of violence, threats or abuse through appropriate training, and managers should provide support, including, where needed, allowing time off work for individuals to recover.

Review dates

This policy should be reviewed yearly when all other policies are reviewed, or if regular or serious incidents arise that suggest it needs to be revisited.

Reporting and recording systems

Staff have a responsibility to report incidences of work-related violence, including threats and verbal abuse, to managers. All incidents, including physical attacks, serious or persistent threats and verbal abuse, must be recorded in the incident book in the manager's office. This asks for details of when the incident occurred, who was involved, descriptions of the perpetrator and any relevant circumstances that may have contributed to the incident.

Any incidents resulting in major injury to staff or that cause staff to be off work for three days or more must be reported under the RIDDOR Regulations 1995. Any incident which results in a member of the public being taken directly to hospital from the premises must also be reported. Managers should contact the HSE Incident Contact Centre on 0845 300 9923 to report the incident.

Less serious incidents should still be reported to managers as they occur and managers should make a note of these. If managers notice an increase in reports, several reports within a short period or reports about the same perpetrator, managers should record the details, ask staff for more information and take action. The action may include contacting the police or other local businesses about a persistent offender, reviewing the risk assessment and considering further prevention measures, or increased vigilance by managers or staff to prevent a more serious incident occurring.

Working with other businesses and agencies

Our company belongs to the Exploitation and Vulnerability Watch scheme in our local area. We therefore have agreed to work with other businesses in the area. We will do this by:

- using the mobile phones which are part of the scheme to let other local businesses know of any troublemakers or incidents in our premises immediately.
- informing the police and other local businesses about persistent troublemakers.
- sharing our CCTV footage with other businesses and the police to aid in the identification and prosecution of persistent troublemakers.
- banning persistent troublemakers from our premises, including troublemakers identified by other local businesses.

- attending local meetings to offer suggestions about further partnership working.
